

Shelter Exhibit Draws 550

MORE THAN 550 people visited the Civil Defense Fallout Shelter exhibit yesterday, Catherine Miller, Monroe County CD administrative director, said last night.

Today will be the last day the exhibition will be located in front of Wyckoff's Store, Stroudsburg. Tomorrow it will be moved to the Acme Parking Lot in Stroud Township and will be open to the public Thursday and Friday from 2 to 9 p.m.

The shelter will be staffed by John Cruse, Stroud Township CD director, Stroud Township volunteers and members of the Control Center group.

Hulsizer To Graduate

WAYNE C. Hulsizer of Saylorsburg will graduate Friday from East Stroudsburg State College with a Bachelor of Science degree in secondary education.

His major is in mathematics, while he has social studies as a minor.

While in college Hulsizer was a member of the Student Education Assn., Men's Day Student Assn., Euclidean Club and the Nature Club.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hulsizer, Saylorsburg. He has accepted a position in the Pleasant Valley Joint School, Brodheadsville.

Boy Wounded By Shotgun Blast

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 13-year-old boy was wounded seriously Wednesday by a shotgun blast police said was fired by a man who complained of being annoyed.

John Smith was struck in the abdomen and side by pellets from the 12-gauge shotgun. Police quoted John White, 72, as saying boys playing beneath a window of his second floor apartment had annoyed him.

White was charged with aggravated assault and battery by firearm.

Monroe County treasurer 1960 hunting season.

Westbrook announced the following procedure must be followed in applying for the license: 1. Fill out the application completely.

2. Enclose $1.15, plus eight cents to cover return postage, and mail the application to the treasurer's office.

Only By Mail

"There will be no licenses sold over the counter and the only way to make application is by mail," Westbrook said.

Nixon Bars Talk On Church Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's press secretary said yesterday Nixon has placed a ban on his workers discussing "the religious issue" in his campaign for presidency last night and set the dent.

The press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, told of the ban when asked about a story in the New York Herald Tribune saying that a confidential memorandum directed campaign workers to keep such an issue out of Nixon's campaign against Sen. John F. Kennedy, of Massachusetts, a Roman Catholic. Nixon is a Quaker.

"This is our policy," Klein said. "Such a memo was issued."

A Leader-In Debts

The borrowing of money by state governments has increased sharply in recent years. In this category Pennsylvania's record is one of the least attractive among the 50 states.

Dr. William L. Frederick, an authority on government borrowing, says the states carried $3.6-billion in long-term debts in 1948. But today that figure has climbed beyond $15-billion.

What should make Pennsylvanians unhappy about his report is this added paragraph:

"Over one third of this 15.7-billion long-term debt is owed by four states, including Pennsylvania."

He explains that half of the state debts are backed by their full faith and credit. The other half has been created by various state-sponsored authorities — which is the principal way Pennsylvania has been operating.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Nation Of Thieves

And still accusations are being made that things just aren't too well with our country and now comes a pretty serious charge, namely that "we have become a nation of thieves wherein our citizenry align themselves in a vast number of pressure groups, each striving to see how much it can get from the public purse."

It's all too true that "pork barrel" is one of the grandest things in politics and it is a destructive practice, but somehow or other everybody gets into the "spirit" of the thing and everybody wants on the gravy-train. Somebody is always to get something for nothing, or for delivery of minor services.

The real danger to America is not external, but lies rather in covetousness and the now well-organized effort to increase one's income at the expense of his fellows.

When government has the power to take money from some and give it to others it becomes the victim of the stronger pressure groups and the attention of the country is more and more focused on obtaining wealth from others rather than the creation of new wealth.

In time that process will decapitalize us and reduce us toward a basis of quality wherein gifted men and women are not rewarded in proportion to their exceptional abilities. Their efforts will decline accordingly, and we shall all be much poorer as the result thereof.

No society can long endure which denies to its exceptionally creative people sufficient reward to stimulate them to their best endeavors.

—Altoona Mirror

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Abundance Vs. Scarcity

Some of our younger thinkers are wondering whether abundance is all that it is cracked up to be. Their generation has not known real scarcity, that is, poverty — the lack of the essentials of life.

Three generations back, the grandparents of those who are now debating whether abundance is not more evil than scarcity, whether abundance is temporary and security permanent, knew poverty. They knew when a dollar a day and a full dinner pail was a political slogan; they remember when Samuel Gompers fought for the eight-hour day as a natural right.

They recall shoes sold in cities for $1.50 a pair and they said that the soles were made of paper. They remember when oranges were seen only during the Christmas season and they were small and spotted.

They knew a world without telephones or automobiles. I recall the first automobile I ever saw. I never knew what a radio was until 1930 because I lived in a country which up to that time had no radio.

The term, scarcity, in modern sociological and economic parlance does not quite mean what it says. There is no scarcity. There is, in fact, too much of everything.

The existing machines can stamp out more than the human race could consume. There is a limit to the number of razor blades that one person can use; there is a limit to the number of steaks that one person can eat.

The major problem that faces our age is not the product of the machine, whether it be the industrial or the agricultural machine — it is the distribution of the wealth of the world. The stockpiling of $7,000,000,000 of agricultural commodities in this country makes no sense.

The total stockpile held by the United States government of all commodities amounts to over $15,000,000,000. Either we find a way to distribute what is produced or we should cease to produce an excess.

It is not abundance to produce what is not used. It is sinful to produce potatoes and dye them so that they cannot be used for human consumption.

It is ridiculous to store wheat in the holds of rusting ships while in other parts of the world there is starvation. And when there is no starvation, what is the excuse for surplus production?

This is as true of automobiles as of wheat, of children's toys as of butter. We waste land; we waste natural resources; we waste minerals and metals when we produce more than can be marketed. When economic nationalism becomes destructive by setting up barriers to the movement of the necessities of life, then there is no rational abundance.

Joseph's ever-lasting granaries did not last longer than those of Henry Wallace. In due course, the land choked on its plenty and resorted to slavery to absorb its labor.

Another factor that enters this picture is good taste, which is only common sense. A person might eat 5,000 calories a day but not 30,000 with safety. A person might eat a one-pound steak at a meal but not 10 pounds.

Most American major illnesses are alimentary; we eat and drink too much and without taste. The rise of such illnesses as diabetes and some of the heart ailments are due to the assumption that because there is abundance, one must gorge.

Similarly, the current concept that it is necessary to change a car, to get a new refrigerator, to own the best hi-fi set, etc., is a mark neither of taste nor culture.

It is not sound economics because it reduces the thrift of the individual and encourages him to look forward to dependence. There are many side factors in this picture and one of the principal ones is the retirement of able-bodied, strong-minded, competent men at 62 or 65 when they are capable of doing their work excellently.

What the politicians call "our senior citizens" are often men of experience, competence and capacity who are thrown off the assembly line by the calendar.

I think of Bernard Baruch, whose 90th birthday occurred last Friday, completing the second volume of his autobiography. I think of the conductor, Pierre Monteux, who at 85 gave performances at Tanglewood this summer which few younger men could equal.

All about are older men who are wasted by a civilization that makes abundance and waste synonymous.

Congo Solution—Lumumba Style

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

Leave it to the Stopp twins of Portland to be around at the right time. If it isn't one it is the other who comes to the aid of persons in need.

In 1957 Don Stopp, the former Stroudsburg High star tackle, saved a youngster from drowning in the swirling Delaware River near his home. The youth was Early Purdie who was going down for the last time in 12 feet of water.

Don, like his aggressive grid days, ripped off his pants and shoes and saved the boy from death amid the cheers of many onlookers.

Not knowing the technique of artificial respiration at the time, the ex-Mountaineer lineman secured the help of a bystander who brought the lad back to life.

Last Saturday the other Stopp (Ron, former stellar Stroudsburg High quarterback) rescued a 15-year-old boy from the selfsame Delaware. The lucky lad was Jerry Covey who had fallen off the pier of the Portland Walk Bridge.

Ron's rescue attempt was in about the same spot brother Don, became a hero three years before.

Ron brought the Covey boy to land and gave him artificial respiration and eventually a new clasp on life.

Like their high school days when both were destined for grid and baseball stardom as Mountaineers, the Stoppes continue to show that class will tell when the chips are down.

Incidentally Donnie will help train the Mt. Bethel heavyweight hopeful Ed Yakenchek for future bouts and may himself take a fling at the pugilistic game as a light heavy.

By the way both Ron and Don are members of Captain Jerry Shanley's Company "A" National Guard unit company of the Stroudsburgs and surrounding territory.

Social Security Guide

Q. I have been drawing social security retirement benefits for a number of years. Recently a friend of mine has told me that my benefits would be exhausted. Is this true? I am dependent upon my benefits for my livelihood.

A. No. Your benefits do not have a time limit on them nor are they ever exhausted. Your friend just slipped you some misinformation. You need have no worry that your social security payments will run out.

Q. I have recently changed my address and have notified the Social Security Administration where to send my checks. Is it necessary for me to also notify the post office?

A. It is not necessary, but it is always advisable to notify the post office of any change in your address.

The Pennsylvania Story

Historic Rarity

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — When Pennsylvania's lawmakers return to their recess-bellared desks on Capitol Hill Sept. 12, they will find themselves faced with an historic rarity.

Mr. Lawrence is not about to abdicate his gubernatorial throne or anything approaching such proportions — but the element of the historical touch will be present nevertheless.

On that date a shade more than two weeks hence, returning lawmakers will gather around the legislative festive board faced with the fact that for only the third time since adoption of the present State Constitution in 1873 — Pennsylvania's State Senate will not be in control of Keystone State Republicans!

(Of course this in itself is a paradox — for neither will administration Democrats hold the controlling whip.) This rather odd-ball development stems from the fact that this year three Pennsylvania senators have departed from senatorial ranks — two resigned (although one died following resignation) and a third died while in office.

In the 50-member Senate 26 votes, or 26 members of the same political faith, are required for establishment of a controlling majority. In the current 1959 session (and also the 1959 session) Republican members initially numbered 28 — or two above the required number for majority control.

Earlier in the year however former Sen. Douglas Elliott, Franklin County Republican, resigned to serve as a member of Congress. This reduced the GOP Senate lead to 27.

Then Sen. Thomas P. Harney, Chester County Republican, died in office, reducing the Senate Republican edge to exactly the 26 needed for Republicans to maintain a constitutional majority.

Congressman Elliott however also died in office, but selected to succeed him as a candidate for his congressional seat was Republican State Sen. J. Irvin Whalley, of the Bedford-Fulton-Somerset county district.

This now leaves Senate Republicans with 25 members in the GOP bloc — one under the 26 needed for a constitutional majority and the number required to pass legislation.

Senate Democrats on the other hand continue with their 22 members — but of course still four short of the magical majority figure of 26.

The only other two occasions when Pennsylvania Senate Republicans were on the short end of the majority stick occurred during the 1937 session when they wound up with 16 members to 34 Democrats, and in the following 1939 session when Republicans had 25 members and Democrats 23 (two vacancies).

Throughout the "gay 1930s" and up to mid-point in the "sad 1930s" Pennsylvania Senate Republicans were in their heyday — as not once from the 1919 session through the 1933 session did their Senate bloc number under 40 — and at one point reached 46, leaving donkey riders with only four members.

There is yet another paradox of sorts in all this however. Contrary to most reports, while Republicans have lost control of the Senate, they are not overly exercised about the fact.

In the first place the current 1959 session is a "bust" session — the first on the annual sessions schedule and limited to budgetary and fiscal affairs, but the 1959 session actually took care of these details when it drew the fiscal blueprint for the biennium ending May 31, 1961.

Virtually nothing has been done in this recess-prone session and virtually nothing will be done by the time it either adjourns finally — or goes out of existence by default the latter part of November.

In effect though, Republicans still hold the upper hand of control — because administration Democrats can't do a thing even now without GOP help to produce the constitutional majority of 26!

Phoenix Fire Company No 2 received 40 new uniforms. The uniform is a regulation blue serge.

A petition was being circulated in the Twin Boroughs to place the question of Sunday movies on the ballot in the coming election.

Dr. Robert Brown, superintendent of Stroudsburg schools, announced today that school would open on Sept. 3 as scheduled.

Rocky All For Nixon

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is sincerely going all-out in campaigning for the Nixon-Lodge presidential ticket, but at the same time he is easily keeping a sheet to the wind.

The nucleus of the New Yorker's pre-convention campaign organization is being retained intact.

Lieutenants are making no bones about the purpose of this backstage "hedge."

They are saying frankly that should Vice President Nixon lose in November, Rockefeller is set to move quickly and forcefully to "assert national leadership of the party."

In that event he also expects GOP conservatives to act just as quickly and vigorously — under the leadership of Sen. Barry Goldwater, Ariz.

Such a head-on struggle would be certain to be stormy and turbulent. It would make Republican history of a kind the party hasn't known since the memorable clash between President William Howard Taft and "Teddy" Roosevelt that culminated with the latter's unavailing Bull Moose presidential slate in 1912. Significantly, Rockefeller is not only making himself fully available to electioneer for Nixon and Lodge wherever they want him to be but is also offering to do the same for GOP gubernatorial and congressional candidates.

He has already done this in one instance—that didn't pay off. Rockefeller made a flying tour of the North Dakota hustings in behalf of the senatorial candidacy of Governor John Davis, who lost by around 1,000 votes to Democrat Quentin Burdick.

Despite this, Midwest Republican leaders were greatly impressed by the big and cordial crowds Rockefeller drew, and they want him to return in the fall, especially in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and South Dakota.

The New Yorker is also being sought in Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado, where the Democrats have made state and congressional gains in the last few years.

GOP Politicians — Senator Margaret Chase Smith, Me., hasn't missed a day of this post-convention session in Congress, but she put in a lot of campaign licks during the 31-day recess. In that period, Mrs. Smith traveled more than 5,000 miles throughout Maine making her "annual report to constituents." She didn't go to the Chicago convention, explaining, "I've never been a delegate to a national convention, and have attended only one, in 1948 when then-Speaker Joe Martin asked me to give a talk." . . . Mrs. Carol Arth, director of women's activities of the Nixon for President campaign, is very encouraged by her initial success. She has persuaded her father to vote for the Nixon-Lodge ticket. Says Mrs. Arth proudly, "Father has always been a Democrat and I'm sure he will remain one. But this time he is going to vote for Dick Nixon. He has promised me that."

How He Did It — Vice President Nixon has quite a bit to do indirectly with Senator Kennedy's scoring an instant hit with former President Truman during their get-together last weekend.

Kennedy broke the ice by telling Truman he intends to wage a "give-'em-hell" type campaign, and to pull no punches in "going after Nixon."

Instantly, Truman smiled broadly, and from then on they got along famously.

"I'm taking a page from your 1948 campaign," Kennedy began in their half-hour private talk. "I've studied it closely, and I am going to do exactly what you did and give the Republicans, and especially Nixon, hell."

"I am delighted to hear you say that," beamed Truman. "That's the only way a Democrat can win. You can't fight Republicans with kid gloves. You can't shadowbox them; you've got to slug them. That's why I liked your acceptance speech so much. It was a good fighting talk. After listening to it, I decided the party could count on your making the right kind of fighting campaign."

"When I get through discussing the Vice President and the various roles he has and hasn't played in the Eisenhower Administration," continued Kennedy, "the American people are going to have a much clearer and more accurate picture of what Nixon stands for than they have now."

"Fine, fine," exclaimed Truman with delight. "That's the thing to do. It will mean rough and tough going, because Nixon is that kind. But the only way to beat him is to wage into him and keep him on the defensive. He's never really been up against a tough fighter. Throughout his political career, he has had more or less set-ups. So he has a lot to learn, if you'll really give him the works."

"I plan to do just that," said Kennedy. "And I'm very anxious to get all the help I can from you. I'd like to have you do some whistlestop campaigning with me, if you will. I'm particularly anxious to have you do that in the Middle West, where I am planning to throw some of my hardest punches in the final weeks of the campaign."

"You name it and I'll do it. Mafia, General Headquarters, Please Enter. Those who pilfered most flagrantly proceeded from that premise. Those who tried to cash in by spoofing at our revelations asked how such an institution could exist, with no one help to it except us. . . . We never said it was an open going concern. We traced the birth and growing pains of the Crime Syndicate through three books. We pinned it on organized Sicilians in America. We called it the Mafia, which it is. Omerta is the secret and unwritten code of the Mafia."

Bus Rides Sought For Jointure Pupils

TEMPERS flared at a public meeting of the Transportation Committee of the Pocono Joint School District last night in Swiftwater.

About 50 residents of the Wherry Housing Project and Lakeside Drive areas in Tobyhanna showed up at the Paradise Township school to protest that their children would not be picked up by jointure school buses.

According to a ruling the state will not reimburse the schools to pick up children living under 1.5 miles from a school. The Coolbaugh Township school in Tobyhanna is 1.3 miles from the housing developments.

Most of the residents in the Wherry and Lakeside areas are employed by the Tobyhanna Signal Depot and are military personnel.

The main objection to not picking up the 135 affected children voiced at the meeting by residents was that winter conditions on the road to the school are unsafe for walking children.

Route 490, the road in question, is plowed to a width of 1 1/2 lanes after snowfalls. There are no sidewalks and the children must walk in the road between the snowbanks, they charged.

According to one resident, "should a car swerve or skid on the snow, the child would have nowhere to run or move out of the way."

"If we don't get the transportation," one resident said heatedly, "how many dead children will we have at the end of the year?"

According to Francis Regan, a member of the transportation committee, it would cost about $700 per year to transport these children. He said the jointure doesn't have the money and can't receive it in reimbursements.

Some residents recalled when all students were picked up by the buses. Sergeant Starnier of the Signal Depot said that last year all those in fourth grade or under were picked up within the limit.

This year no children will be picked up within the 1.5 mile limit, Regan said, however, there are a few children living within the limit that are picked up because of bus vacancies.

To pick up the 135 children would require two runs for a bus of 66 capacity, for which the cost is prohibitive.

Sgt. Starnier said that last year military transportation for these children was recommended to the Signal Depot, but was received unfavorably at that time.

Picture a huge floating Stater Hotel longer by 30 yards than Gordon Giffels Field, the East Stroudsburg Memorial Stadium and the Bangor High football field laid end to end. That's the SS United States.

Its floors contain, in addition to spacious staterooms and cabins, public rooms ranging from library to cocktail lounges. It has a theater, too, where first-run films are shown matinee and evening.

The evening show starts at 10:30. Immediately following horse-racing or bingo, which immediately follows dinner, which takes a hungry man at least two hours to consume if he skips the baked Alaska or crepe suzettes.

And there's even an off-hour restaurant for eating between meals. But no one, no one, ever does.

The swimming pool is salt-watered. There's even a Turkish bath, so I'm told. I learned first hand that the culture is really a barber on a busman's holiday from Hoboken.

I promised the next time I take the DL&W his way I'd stop by his shop for another trimming—that is, if he isn't on vacation somewhere between Ambrose Lighthouse and Le Havre.

Can't Beat Accommodations

And for service you just can't beat the accommodations our little fox terrier has way up on sports deck. Penny's kennel is even air-conditioned, and Al (he's the kennel master) is the kind of guy dogs seem to naturally like.

Al has four this trip—all babies—and two cats, one all white and the other Siamese. Yes, Penny's in good hands. And good company, too.

Among her canine companions: A miniature Schnauzer who answers to the name of Frisky, because he is, who belongs to a family of five on their way to Switzerland and Du Pont's Geneva offices; an 11-year-old Dachshund belonging to a family of three who are off to The Hague on a State Department agricultural mission; a large, handsome, Labrador, called Jet (because Baron Von something or other would sound awkward), whose master is newly appointed U. S. ambassador to Luxembourg; an a prissy poodle (who wouldn't tell her name without an introduction), cuddled each day, during visiting hours, between 10 and noon and again between 2 and 4, by her human who makes a huge livelihood selling art and antiques up and down Philadelphia's Main Line.

Paris (two days later)—Breakfast was early yesterday, as disembarkation at Le Havre was scheduled for 7:30. We bid so long to the United States with the Stars and Stripes waving to us from her stern and boarded cat F, compartment 3, of the boat-train for the three-hour trip, by rail, through the pastoral countryside, which is Brittany. Penny slept all the way.

Beautiful weather greeted us at Paris, and after a brief customs inspection and the hail of a taxi, we were off to a small hotel located on a side street near the Arc de Triomphe, called Printania.

An afternoon in this city of chestnut and sycamore-lined boulevards can be as pleasant as Joy de Patou and as intoxicating as a magnum of Mumm's vintage '29, and the evenings just as expensive. And yesterday was just that kind of afternoon.

The three of us walked down the Avenue des Champs-Elysees (the Fifth Avenue of Paris) to the Louvre. We had first visited this largest of all palaces, with its richest of all art treasure, during our visit last spring, but wanted to return, as so many before us, if for only one reason—to recapture the mystic beauty and allure of de Vinci's Mona Lisa.

Perfect Parisian Night

In the evening we met with an old friend from Lagos, Nigeria, who is now with the American Embassy here. We had a perfect evening at a small sidewalk cafe where one can have a fine dinner and drink good wine at the equivalent to twenty-seven cents a bottle.

And again this morning we find Paris' reputation, as encouraged by Irving Berlin, of favoring April a fallacy. If the sun shines in the southwest of France and on to the Iberian Peninsula, as it does this day in Paris, we can look forward to a smooth flight to Portugal this afternoon.

Stroud Supervisors To Discuss Zoning At Special Parley Tonight

THE Board of Stroud Township Supervisors will hold a special meeting tonight at 7 at the home of the secretary, Harold E. Albert, to discuss planning, zoning and building codes for the township.

Zoning and building codes are separate phases of overall planning, designed to guide the orderly development of communities.

Both phases are encompassed in the proposed "Zoning and Building Code Ordinance" submitted to the supervisors in January by the Stroud Township Planning Commission.

Some objection to certain phases of the building code section of the ordinance developed, and the supervisors delayed any action until they sounded out public sentiment on the separate phases.

In a letter to the commission in July, the supervisors said they felt that all matters concerning a building code must be dealt from the ordinance for the present.

They also said "Thought must be given to the possible inclusion of all residential districts in the 'R-3' zone and elimination of 'R-2' and 'R-1'."

In conclusion, the letter said: "We feel that what we want is zoning in its simplest form to govern the orderly growth of the township."

BUILDING UNDERWAY — Stroud Township's new municipal building, being constructed on N. Fifth St., is now underway. When completed, it will house township supervisors' offices, fire headquarters and other municipal departments. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

S. ambassador to Luxembourg; an a prissy poodle (who wouldn't tell her name without an introduction), cuddled each day, during visiting hours, between 10 and noon and again between 2 and 4, by her human who makes a huge livelihood selling art and antiques up and down Philadelphia's Main Line.

Paris (two days later)—Breakfast was early yesterday, as disembarkation at Le Havre was scheduled for 7:30. We bid so long to the United States with the Stars and Stripes waving to us from her stern and boarded cat F, compartment 3, of the boat-train for the three-hour trip, by rail, through the pastoral countryside, which is Brittany. Penny slept all the way.

Beautiful weather greeted us at Paris, and after a brief customs inspection and the hail of a taxi, we were off to a small hotel located on a side street near the Arc de Triomphe, called Printania.

An afternoon in this city of chestnut and sycamore-lined boulevards can be as pleasant as Joy de Patou and as intoxicating as a magnum of Mumm's vintage '29, and the evenings just as expensive. And yesterday was just that kind of afternoon.

The three of us walked down the Avenue des Champs-Elysees (the Fifth Avenue of Paris) to the Louvre. We had first visited this largest of all palaces, with its richest of all art treasure, during our visit last spring, but wanted to return, as so many before us, if for only one reason—to recapture the mystic beauty and allure of de Vinci's Mona Lisa.

Perfect Parisian Night

In the evening we met with an old friend from Lagos, Nigeria, who is now with the American Embassy here. We had a perfect evening at a small sidewalk cafe where one can have a fine dinner and drink good wine at the equivalent to twenty-seven cents a bottle.

And again this morning we find Paris' reputation, as encouraged by Irving Berlin, of favoring April a fallacy. If the sun shines in the southwest of France and on to the Iberian Peninsula, as it does this day in Paris, we can look forward to a smooth flight to Portugal this afternoon.

Building Code Ordinance" submitted to the supervisors in January by the Stroud Township Planning Commission.

Some objection to certain phases of the building code section of the ordinance developed, and the supervisors delayed any action until they sounded out public sentiment on the separate phases.

In a letter to the commission in July, the supervisors said they felt that all matters concerning a building code must be dealt from the ordinance for the present.

They also said "Thought must be given to the possible inclusion of all residential districts in the 'R-3' zone and elimination of 'R-2' and 'R-1'."

In conclusion, the letter said: "We feel that what we want is zoning in its simplest form to govern the orderly growth of the township."

Eastburg Man Released On Bail

RICHARD Gilliland, 24, of 338 Merten St., East Stroudsburg, was released from Monroe County Jail last night on $3,500 bail for court action on burglary charges.

The bail was set by Judge Fred W. Davis of Monroe County Court.

Gilliland and Harold Strunk, 25, Ananionk, were arrested by East Stroudsburg police Sunday afternoon, approximately 45 minutes after police said they broke into the home of Miss Florence Bush, 905 Main St., Stroudsburg.

OVERTURNED SPORTS CAR — Trooper Leonard Orehek of the Stroudsburg barracks, Pennsylvania State Police, checks sports car which overturned on Legislative Route 45012 late Tuesday. All three occupants were injured. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

State Police Investigate Two Accidents

STATE police of Stroudsburg barracks investigated two accidents yesterday. No injuries were reported.

The first accident investigated was at 7:55 a.m. and involved a passenger car and a bus.

Gary Sprigle, 77, of Saylorburg RD. 1, reportedly failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection of Legislative Route 45085 and 45021, about two and a half miles north of Scota.

Sprigle hit a bus driven by Paul E. Billard, Sr., 43, 1882 Lincoln St., Bethlehem.

Police said Sprigle admitted to them that he failed to stop for the sign and was hit by the bus. Billard, in his attempt to avoid the crash swerved the bus to the left and ran up a seven-foot embankment. The vehicle rolled over on its side, blocking the west lane of traffic.

At the time of the accident Sprigle was traveling north on L. R. 45085 while the bus was traveling east on 45011.

Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the bus and $200 to the Sprigle car.

No Passengers

The bus was enroute to Camp Akiba at the time of the accident. There were no passengers aboard.

The second accident happened about 1:30 p.m., one mile west of Saylorburg on Legislative Route 45004 when the car of Russell F. Williams, 53, of Wind Gap, traveling west, was sideswiped or sideswiped a car owned by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Operator of the state-owned car was Joseph Milman, Jr., 55, Brodheadville, who was traveling east.

Police reported that both drivers claimed the other at fault. Investigation showed evidence that there was a possibility that both cars were too close to the center line of the highway.

School Doctors Selected

DR. JOHN Martucci was named medical adviser and Dr. Robert Arner was selected dental officer for the Pleasant Valley Joint Schools at its meeting last night.

Bernard O. Thomas, principal of the new junior-senior high school, set as a tentative date for the opening of school as Sept. 19. This date however may change following a job conference meeting today.

It is expected that the contractors will set a date for the board to inspect the new school, at its meeting today. Following the meeting the date for inspection will be announced.

Flouridation Treatment

In other business the board voted to give all pupils of the second grade, who have parental permission, a flouridation treatment to their teeth.

This is a treatment given to aid in the prevention of decay to the teeth and to give a child's second teeth a better chance to develop.

The program is sponsored by the state.

Also the board voted to install a telephone system with six phones. The phones will be controlled by an operator in the high school office.

Committed To Jail

FRANK G. GILLIS, Jersey City, N.J., was committed to Monroe County Jail last night on disorderly conduct charges after his arrest by Stroudsburg police.

Monroe Areas Share In $32,450 Refund

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — All 20 Monroe County communities are sharing in a refund of $32,450 in beer and liquor licenses fees being returned to the municipalities where licenses have been issued, the State Liquor Control Board said yesterday.

The payments, which have been approved by the board and forwarded to the Auditor General and State Treasurer for final clearance and check writing represent annual retail license fees paid either to the board by

Separate Meets On AAA Merger

SEPARATE meetings will be held in Stroudsburg and Scranton tonight at 7:30 to act on the proposal to form a new AAA Automobile Club of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Members of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club will vote at their meeting in the Penn-Stroud Hotel. John M. Crandall will preside.

At the same time, a general membership meeting of the Lackawanna Motor Club will be held at club headquarters in Scranton to take action on the proposed plan. William E. Bright will preside.

Nearly 40,000 Members

Merger of the two clubs would result in a new group totaling 40,000 members. Main offices would be located in Scranton, but the local club would continue to be known as the Pocono Division and such a designation would be carried on the emblems attached to automobiles.

Crandall also pointed out that the Poconos would be represented by three members on the new club's board of directors and local members would receive greater benefits and services at a $1 reduction in annual dues.

All members of the club are invited to attend the meeting tonight, Crandall said.

Three Freed After Hearing

THREE men accused of assault and battery and larceny of a motor vehicle were released from Monroe County jail last night after a hearing before Ruth E. Miller, Justice of the Peace.

Mrs. Miller dismissed the charges on insufficient evidence. The three were arrested by the State Police.

The men are George W. Jones, 24, of Philadelphia, George Douglas of Baltimore, Md., and Norman Fallen of Philadelphia. They were jailed last Sunday.

Barrett Gets Most

Monroe County municipalities and the amounts they will receive are as follows:

Stroudsburg, $3,100; Delaware Water Gap, $900; East Stroudsburg, $3,000; Mt. Pocono, $1,200; Barrett Township, $3,650; Chestnuthill Township, $950; Coolbaugh Township, $1,200; Eldred Township, $450; Hamilton Township, $2,700; Jackson Township, $600;

Middle Smithfield Township, $2,650; Paradise Township, $1,800; Pocono Township, $2,200; Polk Township, $600; Price Township, $150; Ross Township, $550; Smithfield Township, $2,450; Stroud Township, $2,600; Tobyhanna Township, $1,400; and Tunkhannock Township, $300.

No strings are attached as to how the individual municipality may use the funds — which represent the entire license fee, the board said.

"It is hoped however," a board spokesman commented, "that the money now being made available will encourage local police in cooperating with the board's enforcement officers."

Art Center Ends Season With Concert

POCONO Art Center will close its summer program with a Family Concert to be played by children from the Pocono Music Center on Saturday at 8 p.m., at the Workshops, Braeside Ave. and Brown Sts., East Stroudsburg.

The concert will be directed by Orlando Cole, cellist of the Curtis String Quartet.

Besides the children of his own family, other families taking part will be the Watts, the Hassmans and young Benjamin Aronoff, 14, son of Max Aronoff, viola player of the famed quartet.

Benji is an ardent golfer, and interested in dramatics. He attended Camp Beaverbrook of Pocono Pines where he has been studying violin. He recently changed his instrument to that of his famous father, the viola.

Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Watts, with their six children, join the Pocono Music Center in the summertime. In the winter, Mrs. Watts helps Orlando Cole teach the cello, at the New School of Music. It was there that she met her husband, a pathologist, taking up the cello as an avocation.

Following in Footsteps
Their oldest daughter, Christine, 9, shows a definite tendency toward following in her mother's footsteps, and will play that instrument in the concert.

David Watts 7, will play the violin. He studies violin with Jascha Brodsky, first violinist of the quartet, at the New School of Music.

Members and friends of the Pocono Art Center are invited to hear this concert, for which there is no charge.

Cub Den 1 Holds Derby

CUB SCOUT Den 1 of Pack 304, sponsored by St. John's Lutheran Church, held its pine-wood racer derby as part of a family outing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Turner, East Stroudsburg RD 3, Tuesday night.

Dewain Arndt was the winner, with Daniel Turner, Jr., as runner-up. Others participating were Melvin Evans, Russell Shif, Kenneth Lindroth, Henry Lee, Bill Sebring, Gerald Smiley and Calvin Bruck.

The program also included sack racing, father-son contests and group singing. A well-earned roast concluded the affair.

Den mothers are Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Elwood Arndt.

ON AUG. 20, Mr. and Mrs. Kennard Lewis and their daughters, Bronwea and Margaret Anne, attended Mrs. Lewis' family reunion at Picture Rocks. The Plotts family reunion has been held every year for over 50 years. Mrs. Lewis' mother is the former Olive Plotts, who married Irvin B. Edinger of East Stroudsburg, while she was teaching at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, then called the "Normal School." Also attending the reunion was Mrs. Lewis' brother, Joseph A. Edinger, of Skaneateles, N. Y., and his wife and four children.

Richard Snyder, who enlisted in the Navy last Spring, was home for ten days leave following completion of boot training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Richard, a member of the well-known Snyder family of masons, has chosen the Sea-Bees as his branch of service and will go on to school in California for the special training required.

Also in the news is Richard's sister, Barbara Snyder, who will receive her nurse's cap on Sept. 12 at the commencement exercises at St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem.

The PTA dance will be held Sept. 3 at Uncle Jud's Tavern on the mountain for the benefit of the PTA lunch fund, which contributes greatly to the reduction of lunch costs for the children of the Dingmans Ferry School throughout the school year.

Brad Huson and John Kloetzer, two members of the Huson Trio who provide the music for many local festivities, were in Wheeling, W. Va., where they attended the WWVA Jamboree. They met many of the folk musicians and were also interviewed over the air. The trio will play Saturday night, at the Dingmans Ferry Firehouse for the Night Club Dance.

Levi Jagger is home again following two weeks' observation in Monroe County General Hospital.

Mrs. Vira Bryan is entertaining her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson of Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. John Cook, of Baltimore and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Coyle, spent the weekend with the former's mother, Mrs. M. M. Kintner.

Next Playhouse Production Is 'Look Homeward Angel'

"LOOK Homeward Angel," a play of splendid and stirring beauty, starring the distinguished actress, Miriam Hopkins, will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse, in Mountaintop, beginning Monday night.

Miss Hopkins, one of the best known stage and motion picture stars first attracted attention in New York as Juliet in "Little Jessie James." Later she won critical reviews in "An American Tragedy" and "The Garden of Eden." She had the starring role in "Laura" on tour and a year's run of the play in Chicago. She also had starring roles in "The Helms" and "Told to the Children." Included in her numerous motion pictures is "Fast and Loose" and "Best People."

Won Pulitzer Prize

The play "Look Homeward Angel" is by Ketti Frings, based on Thomas Wolfe's novel of the same name. During its New York's presentation it won the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Critic's Award. None of the magnitude of the famous author's creation has been lost by Miss Frings in her adaptation. The setting of the play is in North Carolina with the story revolving around a woman, mother of several children who runs a boarding house.

Her one great passion is the possession of money and her belief that happiness can be bought and controlled through the use of it. Opposed to her views is her youngest son who represents the bonds imposed by his mother's greed which are strangling the entire family.

The play will be directed by David Pressman and will continue through Saturday night, Sept. 3, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday at 2:40 p.m. Reservations may be made by phoning LY 5-7456.

Treks 28 Hours To Report Crash

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Ellis Lynn Shuts scrambled along a twisting creek for 28 hours to report the crash of a light plane in the mountains of north-west Colorado and to summon aid for three injured companions.

He told about the trek yesterday at Glenwood Springs. Sometimes, he said, he trailed the stream from the bank. At least five miles of the way he waded.

Shuts, 24, a clinical psychologist at the St. Joseph, Mo., state hospital, was the only one of four occupants of the private plane who escaped serious injury in the crash Sunday.

Stroud Union Teacher To Take Course

MAHLON Serfass, language instructor at Stroud Union High School, will start a one-year sabbatical leave for the school year 1960-61 in September.

He will attend a French refresher course at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia. The course will also instruct in language laboratory techniques and will run from September 20 to June 1.

His absence from the high school leaves the school without a German teacher for the coming year. The school, according to Serfass, still does not have a replacement and is looking for one.

Prize Winners Announced For First Water Gap Fair

THE judging and awarding of prizes for exhibits at the first annual Delaware Water Gap Fair held last week were announced by Layton Osborn, chairman of the fair, yesterday.

All exhibits drew first prizes because of lack of competition. Many other people had items for exhibit but presented them too late for judging.

The prizes were awarded by Layton Osborn, and the fair

Queen's Drawers, Chemise For Sale

LONDON (AP)—Queen Victoria would not be amused but a pair of her drawers and a chemise were put up for sale Wednesday in London.

The seller is Mrs. G. Vine, whose grandmother once worked as linen maid at Queen Victoria's home.

Satisfied the undies are genuine M. R. Holmes, keeper at the London Museum, said: "When she died all her personal effects were given to her staff. Each garment has the queen's monogram embroidered on it."

was sponsored by the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce and the Ladies Division of the Chamber, of which Elsa Matos is chairman.

The fair was held on the grounds of the Hickory Valley restaurant, owned by David Schulman.

Cops Two Awards

Mark Williams, 9, of Delaware Water Gap, won $1.25 for his vegetable exhibit, and 50 cents for his painting of a clown.

Layton Osborn of Water Gap took a prize for gladiolus. All the prizes except Mark Williams' were fifty cents.

ONLY BATTER WHIPPED SUNBEAM CAN PASS THIS TEST!

Try this Tenderness Test Yourself!

1. ORDINARY BREAD tears unevenly, in jagged chunks, because it's mixed the old-fashioned way, a ton at a time. Uneven baking makes it less tender.

2. BATTER WHIPPED SUNBEAM BREAD tears smoothly, evenly. It's tender (even the crust!) because Sunbeam is mixed in small batches to lock in tender freshness.

Only Batter Whipped Sunbeam Bread is fresher, more flavorful!

Drive-In Band Concert At Newfoundland Sunday

NEWFOUNDLAND—A drive-in band concert at the bandshell on the fairgrounds will be sponsored by the Rotary Club on Sunday, August 28, at 8:30 p.m.

The Southern Wayne Joint School combined bands, under the direction of Jack Strupewski, will present the concert. There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken for the benefit of the service fund of the club.

Plans for the concert were completed at the meeting this week at Green's Restaurant at which Claude Smith presided.

There were two guests: Rotarian Carl Ziegler, of Central Perkomen Rotary Club, and James Nicholson, of Ft. Meade Md.

ES Methodist Men To Hold Clambake

EAST Stroudsburg Methodist Church's Men's Fellowship will hold its annual clambake at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday at Bill Miller's Summer cottage at White Heron Lake.

Approximately 100 persons are expected to attend. Norman Gregory will act as chef, assisted by Orville Cole, Henry S. Evans, Edwin Butts, Hugh Potts, Alfred Risley, George Slutter, Foster Miller, William Malzm and Ed Wertheimer.

Eastburg Sailor To Graduate

MICHAEL D. Kintner, apprentice petty officer second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Kintner of East Stroudsburg, is scheduled to graduate Sept. 2 from Recruit Training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Apprentice petty officers are chosen from the ranks of the seaman recruits to assist Company Commanders. The selection is based on individual aptitude and leadership qualities.

Congress Held Useless Gesture

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) yesterday termed the current session of Congress "a useless gesture."

He said the session "is filled with political gimmicks and it's going to cost the American people untold hundreds of millions of dollars in appropriations that had we the sober time to think about it we probably would not accept."

Goldwater, generally regarded as the spokesman for conservative Republicanism, especially after the recent Republican National Convention, expressed his views on a TV program.

Quisling, Hitler Not Well Known

ARENDAL, Norway (AP)—The newspaper Agderposten said a survey of 42 seventh-graders showed 60 per cent of them had never heard of Quisling, Norway's Nazi government chief during the German occupation in World War II. Eight per cent had never heard of Hitler.

Fire Demonstration Set For Portland

PORTLAND — A demonstration of the most recent techniques in combating oil and gasoline fires will be staged Monday at 7 p.m. on a lot adjacent to the Portland Fire house, sponsored by the Portland Hook and Ladder Co.

In addition to a number of smaller fires, a crew of trained men from the Atlantic Refining Co. will set fire to a full trailer load of gasoline and extinguish it without any damage to the trailer.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Ford Foundation has given India a $174,500 grant to provide educational TV programs in secondary schools during the next four years.

TB Worst Killer
HONG KONG (AP)—Tuberculosis is still the worst killer in this overpopulated British colony. Latest health figures show 40 persons died of TB during the week ended Aug. 6. That brought the total to 1,270 since the beginning of the year.

Will Assist
Fire companies from Portland, Mt. Bethel, Delaware Water Gap and Knowlton Township will witness the operations and assist in the demonstrations. The general public is invited.

Hearings For Liquor License Applicants

THE State Liquor Control Board held hearings in Wilkes-Barre Tuesday on restaurant liquor license applications of two Monroe County establishments.

They are Paul A. and Paul John DeSanto of Towne and Country Motel on Route 611, Mt. Pocono, and Samuel Smith and Mary O'Brien of Fern Ridge Inn, Blakeslee.

Will Submit Report
A spokesman for the board in Harrisburg said yesterday the examiner who conducted the hearing will submit his report.

A. The Canadian Restricted

Youngsters Loyal To Dick Clark

Many Say 'So What' On Payola

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

DICK CLARK, the idol of millions of teen-agers, apparently has lost little or no ground with his youthful fans since his appearance before a House committee investigating payola in the record industry.

A hefty majority (69 per cent) of the youngsters we interviewed in a nationwide survey feel that the Philadelphia disc jockey was justified in promoting records in which he had a financial interest.

This enthusiastic vindication of their idol ignores the fact that Clark has already divested himself of his record company interests and pretty much agreed to stick to entertaining.

The survey further disclosed that teen-agers are divided on the whole payola issue, although a good deal of the legislation drafted as a result of investigations conducted by the Harris subcommittee on Legislative Oversight is aimed at protecting their interests.

The anti-payola legislation sets up stiff penalties for fraud and bribery in the promotion of record sales, a practice that a majority of teen-agers seem to regard as normal business procedure.

They may question the ethics of lavishing money and expensive gifts on disc jockeys in exchange for plugging certain records, but many seem to think that in the business world what is legal must come before what is ethical.

Many pointed out that Clark's activities were as old as show business itself.

"Many performers of the past would only plug a song if their name was on it," argued 15-year-old Robin Brown of Hewlett, N. Y. "No one accused them of malpractice and I don't see any difference here."

Some Approve Payola

Cherie Woods, 16, of Missoula, Mont., doubts that payola has ever had a significant effect on molding teen-age musical taste. "The radio stations," she explains, "play enough records in a day and I don't think the amount of plugging makes any noticeable difference. The public will still buy the records it likes and wants."

Another Missoula youngster, 17-year-old Renny Huff, defends Clark on the grounds that "it's his company and his show, so it's his privilege to do what he wants."

On the Clark question, 14-year-old Roger Krause of Muskegon Heights, Mich., feels that "every man's ethics are his own business unless they are a deterrent to society, and this is not. Let the buyer beware."

The 29 per cent who thought that Clark was wrong in promoting his own records on his own show pretty much agreed with 17-year-old Marvin George of Brookline, Mass., that he violated "a public trust."

To 18-year-old Karen Boswell of St. Louis, Clark's conduct constituted nothing less than "cheating the public—it didn't give all records an equal chance of becoming hits."

When asked about direct payola to disc jockeys for playing certain records, 38 per cent of the teen-agers deemed the practice "very wrong," 30 per cent called it "undesirable," 21 per cent thought it "wasn't too bad" and 10 per cent blandly approved the practice.

The disc jockey has to make a living, argued 19-year-old Ann Fields of San Francisco, and "if people are willing to pay, then why not?"

Philip Felt of Pocatello, Idaho, admitted that the practice is "common not only in the record industry but in all facets of entertainment, but that doesn't make it anymore desirable."

Girls More Concerned

On the broader issue of whether similar practices were prevalent in the business world, 56 per cent of the youngsters thought they were "fairly common," 42 per cent considered them "usual" and only 2 per cent deemed them "rare."

Would they approve of their own fathers accepting gifts from business associates seeking favors? Surprisingly, 58 per cent said they would, as against 42 per cent who said they would not approve. The answer reflected a sharp division between the ethical outlook of boys and girls. The boys (73 per cent) were far more in favor of Dad taking payola than the girls (43 per cent).

To put the entire issue in a more fundamental light, we asked teen-agers if they thought it was right to do something unethical but not illegal.

Again the girls seemed more concerned with ethics than the boys, with 66 per cent rejecting the legal in favor of the ethical, compared with only 52 per cent of the boys. On the opposite side, 30 per cent of the girls and 40 per cent of the boys thought it was all right to do something unethical but not specifically illegal.

"In some cases when under pressure it's all right to do it," temporized 17-year-old Richard Boris of Flushing, N. Y., "because of the false standards of what is ethical and what is not."

But 17-year-old John Chelstrom of St. Paul regarded any compromising of ethics as "another symbol of the moral sickness of our society."

"Whenever ethics are slighted," warned 17-year-old James Horning of Mt. Pleasant, Texas, "someone is bound to get hurt."

Questions Asked

Was Dick Clark justified in promoting songs from his own record company on his TV show?

What do you think of the practice of giving payola to disc jockeys to plug certain records?

In the business world are similar practices usual? Fairly common? Rare?

Would you approve of your father accepting business gifts?

Do you think it is all right to do something that is unethical but not illegal?

Dear Abby

One That Got Away

Dear Abby: My grandfather died at 95 and it was up to me to notify all the relatives so they could come to his funeral. I sent out 14 telegrams and made 5 long-distance calls. I couldn't contact a relative who lives in Omaha because he was up in Canada fishing, which was no fault of mine.

All this happened a year ago but I bring it up now because the will was read and this Omaha relative only got a dollar instead of $3500 because he wasn't at the funeral. Now he blames me. Was it my fault?

TRIED MY BEST
Dear Abby: If you tried your best and couldn't reach the fisherman, he shouldn't blame you. All he can do is write it off as a $9500 catch that got away.

Dear Abby: Please give your readers the low-down — are you "Miss" or "Mrs."? Is that your picture and when was it taken? And while I'm getting personal, how old are you?

NOSY

Dear Nosy: I am Mrs. and have been for 21 years (same man; I take my own advice). That picture is recent and I was 42 on July 4th.

Dear Abby: I got the shock of my life this morning when my ten-year-old daughter asked me a question about sex. I had no idea she knew as much as she did. I told her she was too young to know, which she certainly is.

I think this modern method of child-raising is all wrong. I mean telling children everything they want to know. I must be right because statistics show that every year more young girls are getting into trouble. I would like your opinion.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER
Dear Old-Fashioned: Girls get into trouble because they know too little — not too much. You're lucky your daughter comes to you with her questions. Don't discourage her with that foolish dodge, "You're too young to know". If she's old enough to ask, she's old enough to know.

Confidential to "Desperate . . . Please help": There is no reason to feel guilty. Under the circumstances, anything goes.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

Anti-Vote Fraud Action Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania Republican officials yesterday asked the U.S. Justice Department for federal action to help prevent fraudulent voting in the November election.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.), George I. Bloom, Pennsylvania Republican chairman, and Ernest Gazda, Lackawanna County Republican, said William P. Rogers and Harold R. Tyler Jr., assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division.

They said they had given both Rogers and Tyler documented case histories of fraudulent registration efforts by Democratic workers in Philadelphia and Lackawanna counties.

The Daily Investor

Beyond Reach Of SEC

By William A. Doyle

Q. Through your column, I have learned that some stock I bought from a Toronto brokerage firm is on the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's Canadian Restricted List. It seems that I have been taken. How bad does a stock have to be to get on that list? Why aren't illegal operations such as these stopped?

A. The Canadian Restricted List is a list of Canadian companies whose stocks are being sold or offered for sale in the U. S. William A. Doyle

"In violation of the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933." The SEC explains that this "deprives investors of the financial and other information essential to an informed and realistic evaluation of the worth of the securities which registration would provide."

In simpler language, this usually boils down to the fact that such stocks are worthless or close to it. They are peddled through high-pressure "boiler room" tactics by high-binders from across our northern border.

Why aren't these operations stopped? Suppose we quote the SEC again:

"The commission each year files numerous Federal court actions to enjoin domestic companies or U.S. residents from the sale of securities in violation of the registration requirements. Canadian companies, however, are beyond reach of the process of Federal (U.S.) courts."

The SEC and the state regulatory authorities do their best in cases where they have jurisdiction. But that jurisdiction ends at the border.

Q. How can I find out if a stock I own is on the SEC's Canadian Restricted List?

A. Write to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D.C. I don't have the space to print the entire list.

Q. I'm stuck with some stock on the Canadian Restricted List. What should I do? Is there any hope that I will get my money back?

A. You most certainly should report everything concerning your purchase of the stock to the SEC and to state regulatory authorities. They won't act as collection agents for you. But maybe it will do some good.

You may be able to sell the stock in Canada, through a Canadian brokerage firm. Most likely, you'll take a terrific loss. Maybe it will teach you a lesson.

Q. Aren't there any good Canadian stocks?

A. There are many fine stocks of Canadian corporations, traded both in this country and in Canada.

Q. How can a person who wants to deal in Canadian stocks protect himself against buying stocks on the restricted list and against shady brokers?

A. By getting to know your broker — preferably a local brokerage house. Choose your broker as you would your doctor. Don't ever get suckered into buying over the telephone or by mail.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Clark Introduces 'Type' Resolution

SENATOR Joseph S. Clark (D., Pa.) introduced yesterday a resolution to amend the Senate rules to permit any senator who has been recognized to have a speech inserted in the Congressional Record in normal type without having to read any or all of the text.

"The rule requiring a senator to read each and every word of his speech to a sometimes nearly empty chamber in order to have his remarks appear in normal size print in the Congressional Record wastes an inordinate amount of time," Senator Clark stated.

"The adoption of a rule that speeches may be printed in the Record whether delivered in full or not, will make it possible for Senators to get their remarks to the press and in the Record without taking the time of the Senate to read them—valuable time which could be devoted more profitably to many other purposes."

Monsoon Failure Causes Drought

State Elks Elect

HARRISBURG (AP) — Meryl B. Kilmersmith, a Grove City lawyer, has been elected president of the Pennsylvania Elks State Association at its annual meeting here. He succeeds James P. Ebersberger of Latrobe.

U.S. Protests Soviet Conduct

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army yesterday officially protested the conduct of two Soviet staff officers detained after they were seen taking photographs of American defense installations.

The two officers, including the chief of the Soviet military mission in Frankfurt, were held for almost seven hours after being stopped near a barracks at Boebingen, an Army announcement said.

Cyprus Approved By UN Security

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The new republic of Cyprus was unanimously approved Wednesday by the United Nations membership by the U. N. Security Council. The former British colony in the Mediterranean is expected to be elected to membership next month.

Thomas Lynch Jr. of South Carolina was only 26 years old when he signed the Declaration of Independence.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Rome — Only in Italy, I suppose, can you find a brand new road-of-tomorrow, elevated expressway with a lane for parking so that Italians who wish may get out and look down on the city below. And right now they do wish to do just that and in great numbers since the highway bisects what is now the Dymple Village.

Since Vigna Clara is only a few blocks away we have fallen into the habit of suggestion about 6 o'clock "Let's go down to the bridge and see what's happening." Something always is — especially about that time when the flags of the participating nations are being hoisted one by one with due ceremony.

It is exciting. One night it was the Romanian flag with the Rumanian athletes in orange blazers and white trousers marching behind the band. Another night an unidentified flag was raised after a parade by black athletes in all black suits. The band plays the national anthem and everybody gets goose bumps.

Particularly moving was the time one of the United Kingdom countries in navy blazers and grey trousers raised their flag to the strains of "God Save the Queen" with our little bevy of Americans singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee." We'll probably stand up on the rail and cheer when the Stars and Stripes go up.

After the mighty ceremonies are concluded, the crowd still lingers, looking down on the athletes in their varied get-ups and the officials in their Olympic blazers passing back and forth underneath, peering into the street of restaurants (which will form a shopping center for the low cost housing development to which the Olympic Village will revert).

When things quiet down on that side, all the on-lookers cross over to the other side while the four lanes reserved for motorists politely slow down. On the other side they wave at the athletes and the athletes wave back. Sometimes you can tell the nationality by their sweat shirts such as the American and Pakistan boys were wearing.

Sometimes you have to guess as with the dark athlete wearing the calico suit of olive green with the small black figures with tight-legged trousers and loose coat. Turbans, of course, help in identification. Actually it doesn't matter since everybody else—at least until the competition starts. It's all very cozy.

In fact, it got a little bit cozy so that now the police have orders to keep the traffic moving on the mile-long elevated Corso Francia after dark, when the girl athletes discovered that the bridge was a front-seat for their bedrooms for which shades have not yet arrived. Peter, of course, working in the AP Olympic Press Room has much more authentic information and we all wait until he comes home to find out the latest development. He found Henry Kolowrat's name on the list of arriving U. S. fencers and we hope to hear from his wife, the former Betsy Smith, tomorrow. He also found a goodly number of Penn State men on the gymnastic team.

His job is a highly technical one of sending and receiving wire photos which involves changing light waves to sound for overseas transmission. Now, of course, all the pictures are going out Olympic pictures. That's exciting enough but the press room is even more so. He's one of three Americans on the staff. There is a Japanese desk (the editor from Japan brought lighters for the whole staff) American, Italian, and German desk.

There are files of all the athletes and requests coming in for special photographs for specific cities like London, New York, Boston, Tokyo, Milan, or Bonn. I feel a little homesick—as if that's where I should be instead of hanging over the bridge. Especially since he just came in and told us that the American flag had been hoisted today and we missed it.

Oh well, we'll go down to the bridge and salute it anyway!

Surprise Party Given Miss Kreek

A surprise kitchen shower for Miss Vilja Kreek was held last night by Mrs. Irene Wolverson, of 163 Sweet Fern Road, Stroudsburg. The shower was given at the hostess' home.

Miss Kreek will be married on Saturday to Donald U. Stettin, son of Mrs. Dora Stein, Jacksonville, Fla., and the late Larry Stein, at Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kreek.

WINTER WARMTH — Here is one of the smartest ensembles ever designed for the outdoor girl, or the girl who has to walk outdoors to get indoors. The idea for the sweater came from Scandinavia (and where else in the world would you find better ideas about keeping warm). This is a heavy, bulky, hand-knit cardigan that hooks all the way down with leather toggle closings to keep upcoming cold air out. Bonnie Cashion designs.

Brownie Troop Two Enjoys Full-Day Of Activities

Newfoundland — A full day of activities were enjoyed by the girls of Brownie Troop Two under the leadership of Mrs. Ethel Wohlfahrt this week for their August "outing."

The day began at 10 a.m., when the troop met at Southern Wayne Joint School. Accompanied by Mrs. Ethel Schoenagel, Mrs. Dorothy Haag, Mrs. Vera Newcomer, Mrs. Millie Webster, Bonnie Price, Mary Stewart, Bill Webster, and Sharon Newcomer the Brownies went first to Adele Mulrooney's Handweaving Studio in Greentown, where they learned about handweaving. Each girl tried her hand at it, and the piece they succeeded in weaving was presented to them by Mrs. Mulrooney. It will be preserved for posterity in their troop scrapbook.

The next stop was Holley Ross Park in LaAnna, where they picnicked at the lakeside. One of the highlights of this part of the day was the crossing of a suspension bridge over the Wallenpaupack Creek.

After lunch, the group went to Mountainhome where they visited Mrs. Santa's Doll Shop. Miss Elsie Ulrich, who is the official Mrs. Santa, showed them the shop, dolls, and accessories.

Making the trip were Sharon Haag, Elaine and Shirley Bronson, Melissa Burdick, Peggy Tobey, Joan Webster, Carol Zane, Mary and Margaret Campbell, Sallie Fitz, Susan Newcomer, Candace Price and Ruth Ann Schoenagel.

The troop will have as their September activity, an outing at a hunting camp in Canadensis. They will begin their regular weekly meetings on September 12 at 3:45 p.m. at Southern Wayne Joint School.

Carlton Reunion Set For Sept. 4

The Carlton family reunion will be held September 4 at the WSCS Hall in South Sterling.

Dinner will begin at 1 p.m., and other activities are planned.

Mrs. Eleanor Relsens, of 149 Sopher St., East Stroudsburg, a family member, is assisting in a program to make this event one of the biggest for the sake of renewing family get-togethers.

She pointed out that a few years ago this reunion event was a very special occasion for all members of the Carlton family. However, the past few years only a few have attended these affairs. It is hoped that this year's reunion will be an unforgettable program-day.

She suggested that those attending the activities bring a covered dish and table service for each individual in the family.

Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Harry Williams will be co-hostesses for the September meeting.

Guest Pastor For Swiftwater

Swiftwater — Rev. James F. Mort will be the guest pastor at the St. Paul's United Church of Christ, Swiftwater, for worship services Sunday. Service will begin at 9 a.m. with Sunday School at 10:15 a.m.

Mrs. Clark In Hospital

Mrs. Harold Clark, of N. 9th St., Stroudsburg, has been admitted to University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia. Her room number is 471. Any one wishing to send her get-well or other cards of cheer may do so.

Mrs. R. Kintner Has Birthday

Mrs. Robert Kintner, of Mink Hills, celebrated her birthday this past week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Strunk, also of Mink Hills.

She received many beautiful cards and gifts. A picnic luncheon was held on the house lawn and was served to the following guests:

Mrs. Richard Albert, and

Poc. Chorus Sings

The Pocono Male Chorus will sing at the Beakleyville Baptist Church Sunday, Aug. 28, at 7:30. The public is cordially invited to attend services.

Linda and Billy, of Bedford, N.J.; Mrs. Clarence Predmore, Mr. Robert Kintner, Diane, Bobby, and Donnie Kintner, Nancy and Sandra Strunk, all of Mink Hills, host and hostess Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Strunk and guest of honor Mrs. Robert Kintner.

McCall's magazine this month is a real treat to the eye as well as to the intelligence. For those who enjoy reading about fashion there's a condensation of the forthcoming book, "It Isn't All Mink," by Ginette Spanier, directress of the House of Balmain. For those who adore celebrities, there's Lucille Ball to confide why she and Desi Arnez came to a parting of the ways. For the lover of fairy-tales-come-true there's an article about Margrethe Alexandrine Thorildur Ingrid, of the House of Glucksborg, who will one day be queen of Denmark. Art lovers will be delighted by the two-page reproduction of Grandma Moses' painting commissioned by McCall's in commemoration of Anna Mary Robertson's 100th birthday this coming September 7th. But for those who are homemakers-at-heart above all else, there are wonderful pages of new homes... decorating hints... needlework... and food. Pages 98 and 99 particularly delight me because of the glowing shade of blue which I love and which I have in a tall decanter here in my office. (An Italian import, by the way, priced at only 2.98 at Wyckoff's.) Buy your copy of McCall's today, along with a host of other fascinating magazines and books, from our Wyckoff book department.

In our book department, which is actually just a part of our very big stationery department, you'll find many Back to School accessories which your children, large and small, will welcome. Because I am continuously losing them, I am most impressed by the array of cartridge and other pens on the counter there. To my way of thinking, the cartridge pen is far more satisfactory than the ball point can ever hope to be. And what a pleasant surprise to see that ESTERBROOK now comes in the cartridge as well as fountain styles, for only 1.95. The very practical truth about Esterbrook is its replaceable point, an achievement that requires only a moment of the time and a twist of the wrist. The Esterbrook pen colors are delicious too... bright blue, brilliant coral, green, black, and grey. Esterbrook is as pretty as EASTER eggs!

Now is the time to stock up on Berkshire stockings, for there are big savings on stretch, walking sheers, seamless and regular, NOW at Wyckoff's. The sale ends September 3rd, so DON'T LOITER. The shades available have cute names... Tint, Frolic, and Twinkle. Actually they are sensible colors created to blend with everything. One of the shades, when displayed in our window, seems, when viewed from a certain angle, to take on a purplish grape tone. An illusion, probably, but one I enjoy. Guess I'm in the mood for Fall styles and Harvest Home!

Four Pros Share Kaye Lead With One Over 73s

By Carl Prins
Daily Record
Sports Editor

THE PAR meter stopped at 73, the one-over regulation figure, in the opening round of the Danny Kaye Golf Tournament at Tamiment in the Pocono Mountains Wednesday.

But four professionals and two amateurs pushed par hard before bowing to the Tamiment jinx. In seven years of play over the full Tamiment 18-holes, no one has equalled or broken par (36-56-72).

Stan Dudas, of North Hills Country Club, Philadelphia, made the strongest bid for the course record. The former Shawnee Inn Assistant turned the front side in 33, three under regulation.

But three holes and three bogies later Dudas was back to even par. He bogied the par-three 16th and lipped the cup with his birdie putt on the 18th to card the 73.

Early Finishes
Almost two hours earlier, George Griffin of Green Valley C. C., Philadelphia and Jack Nelson, White Manor, Media, toured the 7,000-plus yards course in 73s.

The last pro foursome also brought the final 73. This time it was Bob Schoener Jr. of Green Pond, Easton.

Schoener, playing with his father Bob Sr., Severn White of Newport News, Va. and James Sharpe, Harrisburg C. C., carded a 34 on the first nine but a double-bogey six on the 10th and a bogey five on the 11th sent the Easton pro one-over-par.

Glen Brook Country Club amateur Harold Storm had six birdies but managed only a 75. He was out in 34 but skied to a 41 on the lengthy back side.

Amateur Playoff
Storm and Harold Bilheimer of Green Pond, tied for low gross honors in the amateur division and will play off the tie in a sudden-death set-up during the pro-am event today.

Today's play is for the Danny Kaye Trophy. Each of the 36 professionals will play with three members from their home club. The low ball in the foursome with handicap, will be counted.

The pros, who are playing a 36-hole tournament on the side, will add their round to Wednesday's score. Low pro for 36 holes gets $170 with Wednesday's and Thursday's low scores earning $50 each.

If there is such a thing as lightning-fast, it would probably run a poor second to the Tamiment greens yesterday. The tricky putting surfaces claimed at least one "three-putt" victim in every foursome.

Sam Kinder, Glen Brook professional, managed only one bird and ended with an 81. John Musser, of Elliptic City, Md., one of the Middle Atlantic Section's top professionals, scored to an 80.

Costly Turnabout
Shawnee Inn assistant, Vince Yanovitch, who had a 75 at Tamiment a week ago in the Pocono Professional Golfers' Assn. pro-am, carded an 86.

Paul Kern, of Windsor, N. Y., one of several pros, who shares the course's record of 73, was only a stroke off the mark. Kern was even at the turn. He parred 10 and belted a 300-yard drive on the uphill 11th and wedged the ball to within six inches of the hole for a "gimme" bird.

But Kern blew himself out of the race on the 12th. He pushed his drive into the blueberry patch on the right and had to settle for a bogey when his par putt slid by the hole.

Dudas, who played in the recent British Open, had three birdies on the front side. He sunk an almost impossible 15-foot downhill putt on the second, a three-par and scored on a three-footer at six and a 10-footer on the ninth.

"I underclubbed every shot on the backside," said Dudas, who quickly saw his three-stroke advantage over the card wiped out, when he missed the 10th, 11th and 12th holes. He was also short on the 16th a 220-yard, three-par and picked up his final bogey.

He parred the 560-yard 17th but missed his shot at the record when his 15-foot putt for a bird on the final hole stopped on the lip.

Good Finish
Schoener, who bears a great resemblance to sonster Gary Groshy, joined the 73 quartet with a birdie on the 18th.

He played reverse progression golf on the back side, starting enough to putt these greens sober."

Musser's daughter Mary Ann, recently won the Baltimore women's championship for the second year in a row.

Late cancellations and illness reduced the field from 54 teams to 37.

"I hear they're going to match scorecards for the money today," Bob Schoener who was the only one of the 73s shooters to birdie the first hole, kidded Stan Dudas.

"They can match for the trophy," Dudas replied quickly, "but we'll play off for the cash."

JOHN Wiluszewski limited Nebel's Market to two hits, as Tobyhanna Signal Depot picked up a 2-1 decision in the Monroe County Softball League last night.

The winners were limited to three singles by Keiper but pushed across two runs in the seventh for the win.

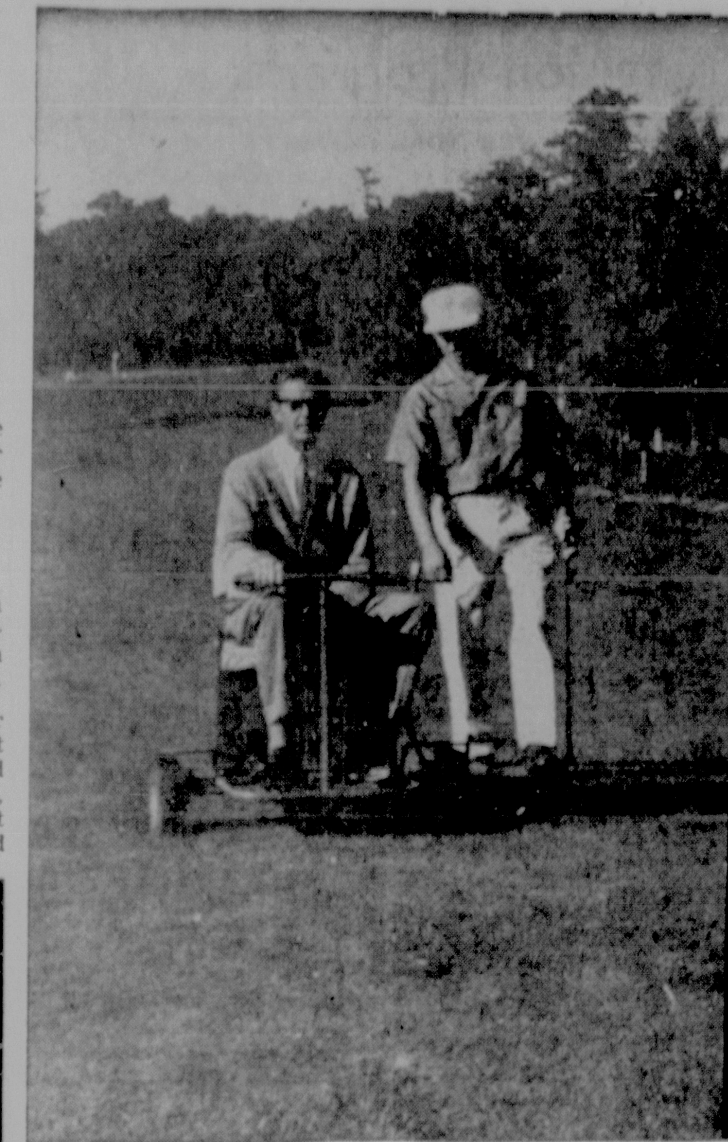

Nebel's scored it lone run, via the unearned route in the fourth.

Load Bases
Tobyhanna loaded the bases with one out in the seventh but Keiper's throw to the plate on a force play was high and catcher Carretta dropped the ball, allowing Winters to score the first Soldier run.

Nebel's argued that Winters knocked the ball out of the catcher's hand after the play was over. After the argument, Lester lofted a sacrifice fly to score the second run.

Vets Win S-Burg; Top Bankers 6-1

VETERANS of Foreign Wars won the Stroudsburg Little League championship last night with a 6-1 win over First Stroudsburg National.

The win was the second straight for the Vets, who dropped the first game of a best-of-three series.

The Vet crew, although held to four hits, garnered a four-run advantage at the end of three innings. Timely hitting with a sprinkling of walks strengthened the winners attack.

Top Performances
The First National, hurler Bergman turned in a fine performance but was slightly outmached by even better pitching by Vet's Ron Yost. The winner gave up two

Yanks Build Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees regained their game and a half first place lead over Chicago Wednesday by defeating the White Sox 3-2 on Hector Lopez' two-run single and Tony Kubek's 10th home run of the season.

Art Ditmar pitched his sixth straight victory, but it took a clutch relief job by Luis Arroyo in the ninth to preserve the tall right-hander's 13th triumph of the year, his third without a defeat over Chicago.

Ditmar hurled a strong three-hitter through eight innings but the White Sox got to him in the ninth, driving him from the mound with three hits after two out, including Roy Sievers' second home run of the game.

Narrow Margin
Sievers' ninth inning wallop, his 25th of the year, narrowed the Yankees' margin to 3-2. When Al Smith and Minnie Minoso followed with singles, Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees quickly summoned Arroyo from the bullpen. The little lefty threw only one pitch and Gene Fresse hit it on the ground to second baseman Bobby Richardson, who tossed him out easily, ending the game.

Sievers got three of the White Sox' six hits off Ditmar. He doubled in the first, homered in the fourth and walked in the seventh for a perfect day.

Fox Hospitalized

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—Jim Fox, 53, former major league baseball star, was hospitalized Wednesday with a back injury received when he fell down basement stairs in his home.

Fox, reported in good condition, was to begin work with a horticultural nursery in Rocky River, Ohio, Thursday.

Pinson's Single Gives Reds 3-2 Win Over San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vada Pinson's two-out single scored rookie Gordon Coleman in the 13th inning Wednesday, giving Cincinnati a 3-2 victory over San Francisco.

Coleman started the 13th with a single up the middle, and after rookie Chico Cardenas laid down a sacrifice bunt, pinch-hitter Gus

Bell walked. Billy Martin popped out, but then the game was over.

Ninth Inning Homers Give Bucs 10-6 Nod Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Successive ninth inning homers by Dick Stuart and Roberto Clemente Wednesday propelled the pennant-bound Pittsburgh Pirates over the Chicago Cubs 10-6.

Each of the home runs were hit off Don Euston, the third of four Cub hurlers, who allowed 17 hits.

Stuart's 17th homer came after Bob Skinner had doubled. Clemente's four-bagger was his 10th.

The Bucs padded the score off Moe Drabowsky, who wild-pitched the last run in.

The Cubs had locked the score 6-6 in a three-run seventh that disposed of starter Vernon Law, seeking his 8th straight victory and 19th of the season. Elroy Face, fourth Pirate hurler, who held Chicago hitless the last two innings, got the decision.

Law, the majors' winningest pitcher, was lifted with the Bucs ahead 6-3. After getting two men out, he served a single to Bob Will—the 9th hit off him—and his first walk of the game, to Ernie Banks.

Green replaced Law, whose five losses for the season include two to the Cubs. Green walked George Altman to load the bases and promptly was relieved by Clem Labine.

Rookie Ron Santo greeted Labine with a double to left center that cleared the bases and tied the score.

Palmer Heads Field Of 150 In Milwaukee; Wall Entered

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The professional golf trail makes its annual four-day swing into Wisconsin Thursday with Masters and National Open champion Arnold Palmer heading a field of 150 in the $30,000 open.

The invasion of Palmer and most of the other top touring pros figures to provide an explosion of par-shattering performances at the North Hills Country Club. The short, but exacting 6,410-yard layout has a par 70 for tournament play.

Palmer, the all-time top money winner for one season with winnings of $73,600 this year, will be out to add $4,300 first prize to his earnings. He has won seven tournaments this year.

However, the 29-year old stand-out from Latrobe, Pa., faces stiff competition in the 72-hole test on the basis of practice rounds by his traveling companions. Par has been taking a beating the past couple of days.

Cary Middlecoff, a two-time

U.S. Open champion and twice winner of the Milwaukee Open, tuned up with an impressive 18 holes in preparing for a crack at his third local victory.

Wall Entered

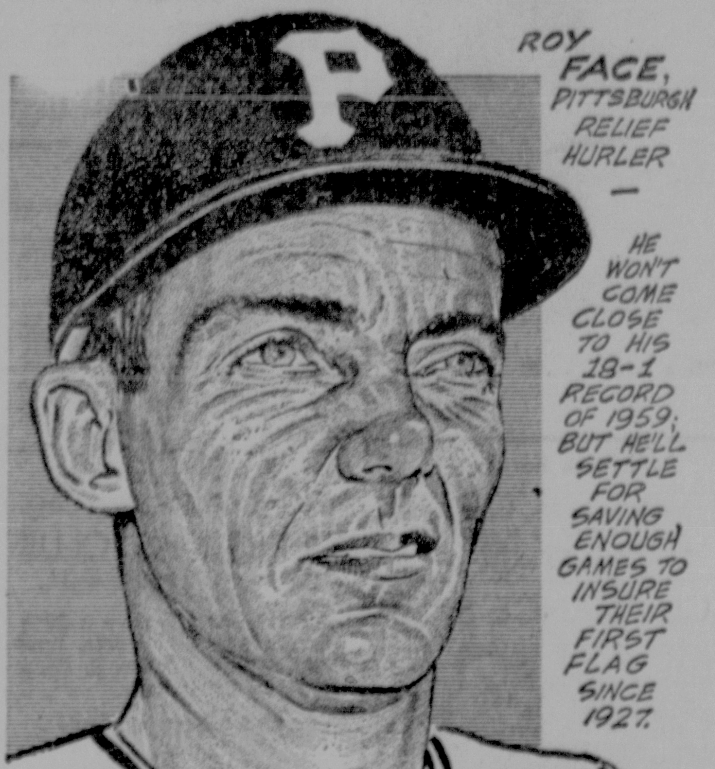

Also showing well in drills were Gene Littler, the 1959 Milwaukee Open titlist, and Ken Venturi, also a former Milwaukee winner.

Others on hand include Billy Casper Jr., the 1959 U.S. Open titlist who shot a seven under par at a nearby course Monday; Jack Fleck, the 1955 National Open king; Bob Rosburg, Art Wall Jr., Jerry Barber, Doug Ford, Tommy Bolt and Frank Stranahan.

Dick Burwell, rookie pitcher with the Chicago Cubs, earned 13 letters in football, basketball, baseball and track at Litchfield, Ill., High School.

The middleweight class was not recognized as a distinct division of boxing until 1884.

Pylon Lighted As Games Near

ROME (AP) — Two ancient worlds reached out of the past in a modern handclasp Wednesday night as Rome received from Greece the Olympic torch for the 1960 games which start Thursday.

More than 100,000 spectators saw the last of the Italian runners deliver the flame to Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the International Olympic Committee, in Rome's ancient city hall square at dusk.

Brundage lighted a huge pylon which will burn until the games end Sept. 11.

Big Ten basketball teams chalked up a shooting average of 41.8 per cent during the 1959-60 season, a conference record.

Rose Bowler Wins Stakes

CHICAGO (AP) — Rose Bowler, a chestnut filly owned by Charlton Clay, won the $99,500 Princess Pat Stakes in Arlington Park Wednesday with a great stretch run.

Ridden by John L. Rotz, the daughter of Princequillo toured the six furlongs in 1:09.45, one second off the track record set by New Gale seven years ago.

The Fred W. Hooper entries of Bright Holly and My Portrait finished second and third while Apantothek, the favorite, owned by Mrs. Ada L. Rice, tired badly and finished out of the money.

Jockey Walter Miller's record of riding 388 winners in 1906 stood for 46 years.

Lehigh Valley dairy Wins Industrial Softball League

LEHIGH Valley Dairy scored in every inning but the first and fifth, to win the Industrial Softball League with an 11-3 victory over Kulp's Foundry Tuesday night.

It was the second straight win in the best-of-three playoff for the Dairy.

The winners managed only six hits but two were for extra bases, including Crane's home run.

Trailing 1-0 after the first inning, the Dairy pushed across three runs in the second, added single runs in the third and fourth and put the game out of reach with a five run burst in the sixth inning.

Season Winners

Kulp's, which won the regular season, also accounted for six hits but could not better than single runs in the first, fifth and sixth innings.

Crane had two hits for the winners, while Schoonover added a two-base hit to the attack.

Werkheiser and Romansky each had two hits for Kulp's. Werkheiser's double was the loser's only extra-base blow.

Lehigh Valley 031 105 1—11
Kulp's Foundry 100 011 0—3

Marsh and Miller; Altomose and Roth.

Home run — Crane. Two-base hits — Werkheiser, Schoonover.

No Protest For Yanks Says Cronin

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Cronin, American League president, Wednesday disallowed the New York Yankees' protest of Tuesday night's 5-1 loss to the Chicago White Sox.

The Yanks based their protest, which was announced in the first inning, on the basis that Billy Pierce, the announced starting pitcher, didn't face a batter.

Pierce complained of a sore muscle and was replaced by Early Wynn.

Umpire Charley Berry, behind the plate, permitted the substitution because, in his judgment, Pierce was in pain and unfit for duty. Berry claimed that the rules permit him this discretion. Cronin agreed. He notified George Weiss, New York general manager, of his decision.

U. S. Cagers Play Friday

ROME (AP) — The United States basketball team, heavily favored to retain its Olympic championship, will play Italy in its first game Friday.

The draw was made late Wednesday. It sorted the 16 teams in the championship into four divisions of four teams each. The United States, never a loser in an Olympic basketball game; Russia, Uruguay and France are the top-seeded quintets and each heads one of the divisions. Thus they will not meet until the final round.

Veteran woman golfer Helen Fay Crocker won the championship of Uruguay 20 times and the Argentinian title on 14 occasions.
